

Scandinavian entomologists II – Arne Sundholm

KARL-JOHAN HEDQVIST

Hedqvist, K.-J.: Scandinavian entomologists II – Arne Sundholm
Ent. scand. 8:285–286. Lund, Sweden 15 December 1977. ISSN 0013-8711.

Arne Sundholm (1907–1972) described 4 new genera and 58 new species of Hymenoptera (superfamily Proctotrupeoidea) of which 3 genera and 57 species are still valid. A list of the species and synonymy is presented, together with a record of his published work.

K.-J. Hedqvist, Swedish Nat. Sci. Res. Council, c/o Dept. of Entomology, Mus. nat. Hist., S-104 05 Stockholm, Sweden.

Arne Sundholm (1907–1972) lived in Blekinge, a province of southern Sweden, where he earned his livelihood as a dentist. His early love of nature led him to collect and study insects, especially beetles. Anton Jansson gave him an enthusiasm for the Hymenoptera and Sundholm became an internationally recognized authority on the superfamily Proctotrupeoidea and he determined many collections throughout Europe.

Sundholm, although objective and very critical in his science, was a modest person by nature and got on well with people.
